

We protect each other but we cannot protect ourselves from each other. It is always a double bind situation, like trying to haggle with the stall owner of a flea market. I cannot seem to get what I want from you.

protect your own, but they undermine you.

Do I THREATEN you? The precariousness of my position should not scare you. After all, I am mad, I speak nonsense and absurdities.