

a betrayal of the integrity of the theories used?

I wonder if they behave like physical lenses when put together or do they cross each other out like coloured filters. Perhaps you can't put them together, each lense picks something up and leaves out another thing. How about bifocals or even multifocals?

One point perspective and a million points perspective. Changes a lot of things, doesn't it?

○ ○

No Backing Down.

Theories are also like frames of seeing. Like lenses that enable you to see. It is impossible to see without 'theory.'

It cuts into my eyes like lasers...

what is theory?

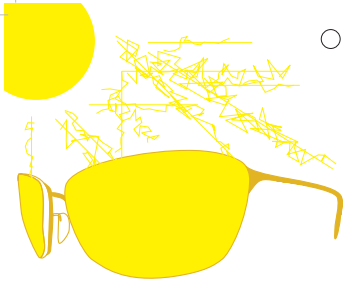

No Backing Down.

○

If you do not have a theory, it's like saying you don't have a body (but some think it's possible).

Theories according to Someone, are ways in which one controls/deals with/handles the world.

○ ○