b-I want, partly, feedback—I'm paranoid about misunderstandings. This is an aesthetic, a modus operandi by which to hold your gaze.

Can you empathise?

Stewed

Is it only you and me here? Please answer (in dream) nothing but you.

LONGING TO SAY

And being able to say, that is not what I wanted to say, but to say what it is that I want to say.

But I do not say it to you.

Roasted

a-I think you are very interesting.

b-hmmm...[looks unsure]

why?

a-why don't you say anything? Are you saying that I am not by not returning the compliment?

b-well....

(wants to say 'you're being egotistical' but does not because it would mean that b- knows what a- is on about)

...Interesting?

...It's just that I don't think there is such a thing as INTERESTING.

It's all to do with what you're used to, & what you are familiar with. your liking, your opinions are completely dictated by arbitrary and random things when you look closely at them.

That is, like which culture you come from, life experience, blah blah. I think that's interesting, but I think it is interesting because of what I study, in fact, I find EVERYTHING interesting!

But you, like the fact that you are an engineer, and a foreigner in this country, with middle class background, that is, like you like independence, freedom and stuff like that, I know that you find people like me interesting, but that doesn't really say anything. I don't think I am interesting. And I find all people interesting, like what they say and do,

but I don't really know that I am taking them to be interesting for the way they want to be interesting, you know?
